Lunch by Sydney Harbor

June 17 (Saturday), we are hosting a lunch party in a popular Italian Restaurant by Sydney Harbor.

The food is fantastic, the environment is even better. Sitting at an open area, we will be surrounded by romantic music, played and sung by a live band.

The most exciting thing is the opportunity of meeting interesting people from all age group and all background. One of them may be your potential soul-mate.

If you like to know more details, please visit our website:
www.metropersonal.com.au; or give us a call: 02-92210123, or 0433560668.

We look forward to hearing from you!!!

Potential Quality (4)

I used to hear such an expression:

Some people are consciously incompetent, because they know they are not good enough

Some people are consciously competent, because they feel they are good at what they do;

Some people are unconsciously competent, because they are masterful for what they do. They don't need to be aware of that consciously. They appear quite humble.

Being humble is not just because you are confident. To many people modesty comes from the nature, which is one of the potential qualities we should search when looking for a partner.

I believe we all have met, or dealt with humble people. Maybe some of you have that modest nature, too. So we know what a humble person can be.

A humble person usually likes to be low key. He doesn't like to stand in the front, unless he has to. He doesn't like to boast his achievements. He always shows great respect to others.

A humble person often carries a humble life style. It is not because he can't afford expansive things. It is because he only likes to carry a life which he feels good and comfortable, instead of pleasing others, or proving to others.

A humble person will not be afraid of praising and recognizing others achievements. He will not be threatened if other people are better. He can be genuinely happy to see other people to achieve.

A humble person has the courage to accept criticism and disagreements, because he knows he is not always right.

A humble person doesn't like arguing. He has own opinion but also opens the door for other people to express. When stating his opinion, usually he will say: "I thought...."; "Anyway that is just my personal opinion".

Sometimes the humble nature can be abused. But at the same time, humble nature attracts people. At work or social environment, people like to be friends with humble people. Interestingly, humble people have more chance to be promoted at work, because they cause no threat to others.

In a relationship, humble people can also make the partner feel comfortable. They let people be who they are.

Selecting a life time partner is a tough process. I encourage single friends to recognize and appreciate this important nature from the people they are dating with.

We are building a New Website!!!!!!

In few months, we will present you with a brand new website. Not just looking and feeling good, the new website will offer more functions and make the search much easier.

Of course, we will have new logo, too. It is exciting. We will keep you informed about the progress.

Letter from our clients

It is a great feeling.....

Dear Eva

My feeling is that we could have a good and strong chance to build a caring and real Relationship. I would like to pursue this and give some times to this relationship to see whether it is possible. She and I have lot in common.

And it is a great feeling thus far. So I like to put a hold on any introduction until I advise Otherwise. Thanks for thinking of me and her.

Bill
