At the end of every year, many will say, “ The year has just gone so quickly! “ At the beginning of a new year, many will say,” I must do this!” “ I don’t want to waste another year!” Thus many best intentions, and many New Year’s Resolutions appear in the diary. However, the best intentions and New Year’s resolutions do not become reality without determination and constant effort.

For example, among the New Year’s resolutions, one of the most popular ones for singles is, “I don’t want to be alone anymore”. The desire can be strong, but the fear of being hurt, the fear of failure stops real action. In order to make it easy, many singles try some casual ways, like online dating, going to parties, responding to personal advertisements in a newspaper , even approaching people at the bus stop. They hope through this way, a miracle will happen, just like what happens in the movies.

Unfortunately, often casual ways attract casual interests. To those who only have casual interests, or an interest in hurting, or using people, the casual way is the heaven sent low cost , no commitment, easy come easy go pathway . However, those who are busy, and those who are looking for something genuine, may end up wasting time, money and emotion. I agree not everyone has casual interest in a casual way. But from a casual meeting scene, how long does it take to find out who is genuine and who is only playing?

Talking about an Introduction Agency, I believe it can be the best option singles will take. For some reason, people always have concerns about that industry: “They will charge a lot money”; “Not sure who will use the service”; “Would they cheat?”; “ Am I that bad that I need to be introduced?”

I believe to make the right choice to realise our goal, we always need to be logical, and result orientated. Here are some comparisons between the services of an introduction agency, and casual meetings, in terms of result:

- 1) Most casual ways do not need much thinking, therefore the commitment is low; a person willing to show his/her face and pay is the person who is committed to what he/she decides to do. Mental commitment brings action and effort, which is the key for success.

2. Most casual ways only rely on a person’s honesty . There is no way to verify that honesty, until spending quite a long time with the person, while in the agency, consultants have had the opportunity to meet and get to know the members, through communication and feedback. Not only can some information be verified , also there is in depth understanding, built up between consultants and clients.

3. Dating people from a casual meeting relies on guesswork and imagination; while dating people from a professional agency, people get assistance to find out more truth, background, and other information on a suitable partner.

By reading here, many may think this is a sale’s pitch. However this analysis of casual meetings, compared to the benefits of an Introduction Agency service is not only logical, but also from my many years of observation . Different ways suit different people. I encourage those who are looking for something more serious, more real, to leave the fear and prejudice aside and come to investigate. Wishing 2019 brings you the true love of your life!
