Better than online dating

Metro Personal Consultants is an established introduction agency in Australia and New Zealand.

Unlike online dating, we've met all our clients in person and through the services got to know them personally. They are the real people who are looking for relationship.

One of the keys to make Metro stand out in this industry is its professional and personal service. Apart from clients' own search from the website, the professional consultants can help with in-depth matching. Because knowing each client, this matching saves time and assists success. However no matter how confident the consultant is about the matching, we will deliver photos and profiles to both men and women for their own judgment and decision. Only with mutual agreement, then can we exchange contact numbers. Our promise is: NO BLIND DATING.

During the dating we also offer supports to the communication, including confidential discussion, or finding feedback.

Relationship means fun. We hope to deliver a platform for genuine singles to enjoy meeting like-minded people without wasting time .

The potential qualities (2)

When it comes to selecting a partner, some people like to make a “shopping list”. The list covers the looks, the education, the career, the assets, and the personality they wish to have from a potential candidate.

I can understand their thoughts. Anyhow, who would like to divorce? Who wouldn't want a perfect partner?

My article in my last newsletter encouraged people to look into some potential qualities inside a person. That is because everything can change even after the shopping list items are all ticked. But some qualities inside a person can make things different, or can truly deliver what the “shopping list” requires.

Here is the No 1 quality: Positive Attitude.

We may all have heard the story of glass of water, half full or half empty. That reflects the attitude in people's perception, judgment, understanding and reaction to things and people. By their nature someone can only look at a glass of water being “half empty”, while others can look at the glass being “half full”. The negative or positive view brings different impact to a person's life, career and marriage, which also influence the people around that person. Negative attitudes may also deliver something from the “shopping list”, but it can be temporary. While a positive person may not be able to deliver everything on the “shopping list” by now, but he can fulfill our desire for a happy life for a long time. Here are some characteristics of a positive person:

- To be passionate about opportunity;
- To learn from mistakes and then fly higher
- To be more solution orientated than just sitting at home, feeling sad;
- To appreciate people's strength more than criticizing their weakness;
- Not to be afraid of apologizing;
- To be trusting and encouraging, even inspirational;
- Easy to forgive and forget

When a person possesses those characteristics because of his positive attitude, he will be able to achieve many things in life. When a person can see our strengths more than our weakness, we will be more encouraged. When a person can try to find a solution over any problem, we do not need to live in a negative environment; when a person can forgive our mistake, we are more motivated to do good. Just imagine living in such a relationship, or marriage, would we become happier?!

Eva Chen is the founder of Metro Personal Consultant.

For over 20 years, she published over 500 relationship articles in newspaper of different languages. She was guest host at ethnical radio stations in relationship programs. Her story was in the documentary: Behind the Closed Door by SBS.

But most important, she is a consultant with Metro Personal, who is responsible for over 1000 successful matches.

In this newsletter, we will publish some of Eva's articles, which, we hope, can inspire and encourage many singles to find the love they are looking for.

“I love you”— Work-shop 20/5

So often we hear the words “ I love you”. It can be from a mother to her son. It can be from a sister to her brother. It can be from a boyfriend, a wife to the love ones. Or it can be from someone who wants something from another person.

What is love? Why for someone it is so easy to say “I love you”, while for the other so difficult?

On May 20th (Saturday), we are going to host a work-shop in Brisbane about the love in relationship. The guest speaker is our founder, relationship columnist Eva Chen.

Eva has over 20 years experience in match-making industry. She has successfully matched over 1000 couples. She will share what she learnt and what she has observed through the work and research. It is going to be fun and interesting.

Here is the details:

Date: Saturday 20th May 2017

Time: Work-shop: 10am—2pm (lunch included ; Tea Party: 2pm—5pm

Happy Couples of the Month

Metro Personal are responsible for thousands happy couples through world-wide operations. We witnessed the whole process from the initial interview to final success, during which we also experienced the pain, the frustration and the joy with each person.

We want to say to them: guys, we are very proud of you. We want to wish you all the best in your new life together.

Dear Mary and Josh,

Thank you for the invitation to your wedding on 4th March 2017.

We congratulate you and feel very proud of you. Both of you are decent and lovely people. We thank you for choosing Metro personal as your match-making agent. We also thank you for your openness and sincerity all through the services. We are so pleased to witness the progress of your love for each other. We are so excited to be informed that you are getting married! Well done!!!

We just like to wish you all the best in your new life together. May God bless you both and your marriage. Wedding is just the beginning. We believe through the journey, both of you will respect each other, continue to love each other and make this marriage as an example for all the people around you.

We love you both.

Eva Chen with the team.
