Hi Eva and beautiful members,

How are you?

We've been fine.

Thanks for your kind assistance, I applied permanent visa as the partner of Frans last week. We are very happy and enjoying our life.

You gave me a new wonderful life in Australia with him.

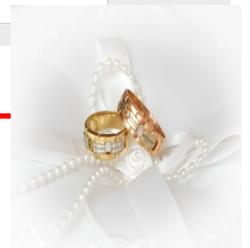

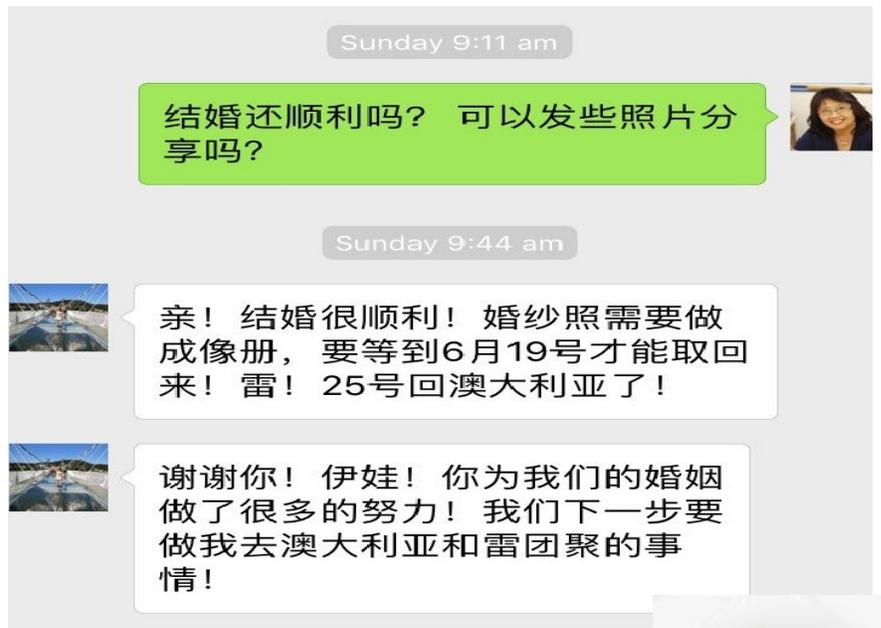

I appreciate you and your members.

I'd like to see you and say thank you someday near future.

I'll mail you for asking your schedule when I have a chance to visit.

Thanks again.
Cheers!!

Aki

When we look at people's personalities, there are a few things we may notice:

- Everyone is unique, and everyone has a different personality.
- Everyone has a personality which can be easily spotted, even from babyhood;
- Everyone has a combination of other personalities, which takes a long time to find out..
- Some personalities exist from birth, but some personalities are formed by life experiences, upbringing, and also the influence received from others. Therefore we often see personalities change from time to time, and person to person.

There are four major personalities:

1. Happy man;
2. Man of perfection
3. Natural leaders;
4. 'Yes' Man

Each type has some recognizable characters.

Type I Happy man

This is a happy, cheerful personality. People with this personality are charismatic, enthusiastic, They can make friends with anyone. Often we call them people persons. They love to talk , love to have attention and love to exaggerate stories.. They are easy to get excited, or upset , but shortly can forget it .

Because of their natural charisma, they can bring fun to dating. Most times, they achieve a good first impression by others.

Type II Perfectionist

This personality is right opposite to the Type I. They are much quieter. They like to think deeply. They like details and hate to exaggerate. In life, they always search for perfection, from the way they dress to the job they do and to the place they keep things. Usually, they have excellent organizational skills. They like to follow routine. Some routines can remain for life.

Continues from previous page

Usually a perfectionist is cautious, always preparing for the worst. Although he doesn't talk much, often he has good sense of humor when he talks.

Type II: Natural leaders

This is a dynamic personality, full of drive and action, very much goal driven. Once setting a goal, they are determined to accomplish it, regardless how many people oppose it. Because of confidence and determination, they are influential. Wherever they go or whatever they do, they are leaders.

However people admire them, but don't like to get close to them, because they can be controlling, bossy.

Type IV: "Yes" man

Opposite to the leaders, these people just like to have a peaceful life. They hate stress, and find it easy to be content. They don't like confrontation. When there is an argument, they run away. They like to say 'yes', instead of 'no'. Friends like to be with them because they are easy going, patient and calm.

The above description are only part of the characteristics for these four types of personality. The benefit to recognize these character is to understand the people we are dealing with. In dating, the understanding of different personalities will help us to choose the most suitable partners. By Eva Chen
