Tracy and Bill,

Thank you for your courage to walk into our office. We witnessed your journey. We saw your frustration. We knew you were vulnerable. But we also know you were both blessed people.

To see you walk into the aisle, having the first kiss as the man and wife, we couldn't help to say "You've done it!" You inspired many singles and gave them the hope that one day, they could be as happy as you two if they don't give up.

We sincerely congratulate you and wish you all the best. May your life together be fulfilled with joy and happiness. GOD BLESS YOU!

From your friends: the staffs of Metro Personal Consultants

In previous articles, I briefly introduced four major personalities and the possible compatibility among them. However the complex is most of us have multiple personalities , instead of just having one. Therefore to understand a person, we also need to understand the combination of his personality.

Because of the upbringing, life experience, or the influence we received, each person can have different mix of personalities, which makes everyone unique. However that doesn't mean there is no regularity in those combinations.

The common combination of the personalities are: Mr Happy man and Mr Leader; or the Mr Perfectionist and Mr Peaceful, or Mr Perfectionist and Mr Leader.

In each pair there are similarities . For example, Mr Happy Man and Mr Leader are both extroverts. They are both energetic, and find it easy to mix with people. Or Mr Perfectionist and Mr Peaceful are both deep thinkers, good at listening, sensitive; or Mr Perfectionist and Mr Leader are both well organized, and good at planning.

At the same time, we will also see the differences in those pairs, which compliment one another . For example, Mr Happy Man is light-hearted, flexible, which makes the goal driven Leader softer, more fun. At the same time, the goal driven Leader makes the Happy Man's passion last longer, less forgetful. People with this combination are very good in marketing roles. They are dynamic, happy, approachable and easy to talk to people.

Let's also take a look another pair: Mr Perfectionist and Mr Peaceful . Mr Perfectionist's well-planned, analytical traits pushes Mr Peaceful to take action, and not to procrastinate too much. While Mr Peaceful's core trait is being laid back, taking everything easy. That trait sometimes relaxes Mr Perfectionist from being too perfect. In life, we often see this combination in some doctors, engineers, accountants, etc. These people often remain calm, logical.

Now let's take a look at Mr Perfectionist and Mr Leader. Mr Leader usually is goal orientated, always striving for the best result. Sometimes they can be too spontaneous. While Mr Perfectionist will never do that. They are good at weighing up the pros and cons of a situation. They are good at making plans to reach their goals. Mr Perfectionist likes to think. Sometimes because they think too much, and too deep, it stops any action, while Mr Leader is the action man. His action will kill the fear Mr Perfectionist has. We often see this combination appearing in people who are in a managerial position. Many company executives possess this combination. They have passion and determination, yet also have perfectly planned, and well-thought out ideas, etc. Often they are great achievers in our society. However if this combination carries on to their social life, sometimes people around them can suffer stress, because they want everything to be perfect, and they are often very pushy.

In addition to the above, there are many other combinations in people's personalities. Sometimes the combinations can be really opposite, say: the traits of a Happy Man combines with Mr Peaceful, or Mr Peaceful combines with Mr Leader.

No matter what kind of combination, each person is unique. Each combination is a good combination. Understanding the personality not only helps us to deal with people, but also explains some behaviours or demands, therefore we don't need to be too sensitive, or take everything personally.
