The Women Who Can Make Men's Heart Beat Faster (1)

Many women have asked me” what kind of women are these men looking for?”, or “what kind of woman can make men’s heart beat faster?

I believe this is a million dollar question. Many women desire an answer, but few can provide that answer. That is because most men judge women by their vision and feeling, both of which are hard to explain. That’s why if anyone asks a man “what are you looking for?”, his answer is so simple” when I see , I will know”.

However, no matter how mysterious it sounds, there is something in common. when men are looking for that “something” in a woman. There are a few types of women who can certainly make a man’s heart beat faster after meeting them.

The first group I believe is the “smart women”

In our society, there are many men who enjoy meeting smart women. Women’s wisdom stimulates them. The wisdom does not just show in their education, or their work, mostly it is displayed in their life.

I used to know a financial director. When he told me the type of women he was looking for, he said” I don’t care what kind of degree she has, or what sort of job she is doing. She could be a cleaner, or just working in the market, but she has to be smart. She has to love life, be curious, have a desire to improve, be confident, humorous and easy to communicate with. He believed these are the qualities a smart person should have. Living with a smart person, life can be very interesting.

Continue...

Continues from the previous page....

I think he shows good insight.. His definition about wisdom is not narrow. Our degree, or our job, does not necessarily make us smart in life. What he wanted is someone he could communicate with, on a similar wavelength; someone who could share his life and interests, someone who could inspire him, understand his sense of humour. According to his standard, which I think is not a low standard, whoever loves life, he/she must be a positive person; whoever is interested in learning, he/she must have a lot to share, be willing to learn from others; whoever is confident, he/she will not feel insecure all the time and has courage to trust others. Whoever has a sense of humour, he/she will make a life full of laughter. He didn't reject a pretty face, but what really made his heart beat faster was something from inside, the wisdom that would let her shine .

I think his thoughts are one of the main reasons to make many men's hearts beat that much faster!

A woman can try different ways to attract a man; her appearance, or her wisdom? I think appearance will die long before the wisdom would ever die. The wisdom of a woman can really get under a man's skin.

Another way of putting the attraction, which is not just a pretty face and a good figure, is the word "charisma"...a mixture of wisdom, charm, energy, enthusiasm for life and learning, and genuine interest in other people....adds up to a powerful attraction!
